

Port Hood Then and Now – Part 2B

This article continues Gordon Smith's series showing the picture postcards of Port Hood and area matched with modern images taken in the summer of 2021. If you wish to see other articles in the series and the modern images in colour, go to bit.ly/PHPcards

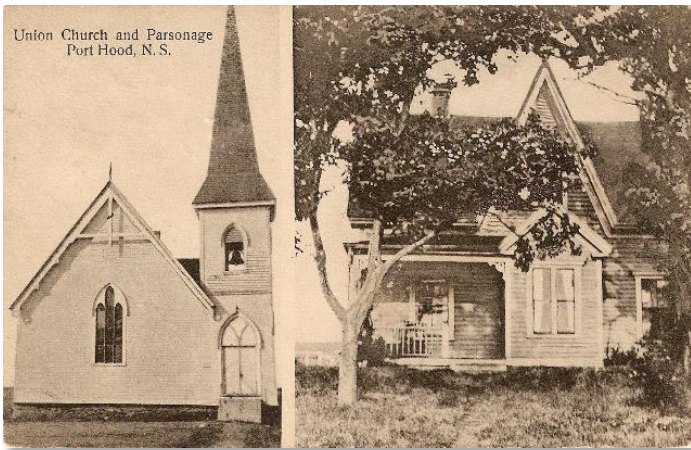

View 3: South End Port Hood

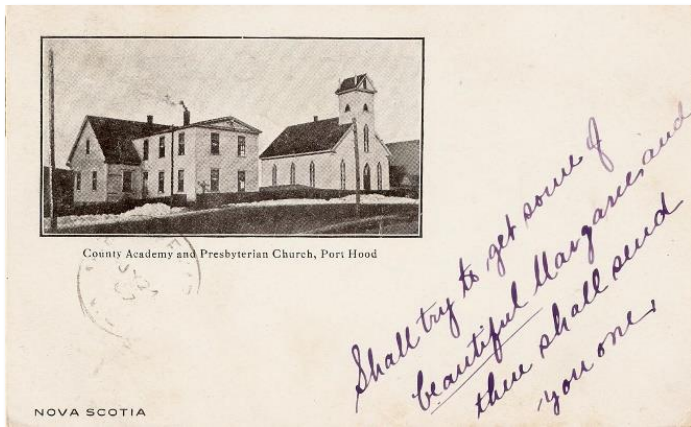

View 4: Methodist Church, Port Hood, C.B.

This church, now St. Stephens United, was originally built as a Methodist Church in 1886. Given that this postcard describes it as a Methodist Church, we can presume that the photo was taken before 1925, when the Methodist, Congregationalist, and part of the Presbyterian churches in Canada amalgamated to form the United Church of Canada.

View 5: Union Church (now St. Stephens United) and Parsonage, Port Hood, N.S.

This is an image of the same church presented in View 4, however, the new description as the “union Church means that we can presume the photo was taken some time after 1925, when various churches in Canada including the Methodist church amalgamated to form the United Church of Canada.

View 6: County Academy and Presbyterian Church (Neither of the historic buildings exist any more.)

This aerial view of Port Hood shows the locations from where the photographs were taken
